

Current Topics in Biophysics (Zagadnienia Biofizyki Współczesnej) vol. 23 (1), 1999, 125-131

Statistical analysis of spin-hamiltonian parameters obtained from a simulated annealing procedure for liquid phase copper complexes

Giovanni Della Lunga, Rebecca Pogni, Riccardo Basosi

The Simulated Annealing procedure is presented as a numerical method for the analysis of ESR spectra. Furthermore, a careful analysis of the trend of the standard deviation for each simulation parameter is presented at different microwave frequencies and a comparison is made with similar results obtained in the framework of sensitivity analysis.