

Zagadnienia Biofizyki Współczesnej tom 8, 1983, 103-115

An application of the fluorescent labels in the investigation of biological membranes dynamical properties

Maria Bryszewska

The article presents methods of membrane viscosity research using fluorescent probe. It also gives a review of some experimental results concerning dynamical properties of biological membranes and an application of these methods in the medical practice.